

DATA & LABOR INSIGHT™ CITATIONS

Burning Glass Technologies data is widely used by researchers but how it is cited will depend on whether you are sourcing the data from one of our products, from a data pull conducted by Burning Glass, or one of our research reports. We've tried to cover most of the possibilities in this guide. If your situation is not covered, please consider using a citation generator, like citatior.com.

Short Citations for presentations (informal):

Data:

- Source: Burning Glass Technologies. 2019.
- Source: Burning Glass Technologies. burning-glass.com. 2019.

Labor Insight:

- Source: Burning Glass Technologies: Labor Insight™. 2019.
- Source: Burning Glass Technologies. burning-glass.com. Labor Insight™ 2019.

Footnote (informal):

Data:

- Source: Burning Glass Technologies. burning-glass.com. 2019.

Labor Insight:

- Source: Burning Glass Technologies. "Labor Insight™ Real-Time Labor Market Information Tool." Accessed [MMMM DD YYYY].

MLA Database Citation:

Data:

- Burning Glass Technologies. (2019) [Data File]. URL. Retrieved MMMM DD, YYYY.

Labor Insight:

- Burning Glass Technologies. (2019) "Labor Insight™ Real-Time Labor Market Information Tool." [Data File]. URL. Retrieved MMMM DD, YYYY.

APA Database Citation:

Data & Labor Insight:

- Burning Glass Technologies. (2019). [Data file]. Retrieved from URL

RESEARCH REPORTS

Where there is no named author:

Burning Glass Technologies and Strada Institute for the Future of Work (2018), "The Permanent Detour: Underemployment's Long-Term Effects on the Careers of College Grads"

Where there are named authors:

Sigelman, Matthew; Taska, Bledi; Restuccia, Dan; Braganza, Soumya; and Bittle, Scott. "Majors that Matter: Ensuring College Graduates Avoid Underemployment," (2018) Burning Glass Technologies